BOOTH STAFF ATTIRE

- All Expo booth staff are expected to dress in business and/or business casual attire. Exhibitors should ensure that the attire of all staff they deploy at their booth (whether the exhibitor's direct employees or their contractors) be considered appropriate in a professional environment.
 - o Booth staff personnel cannot be shirtless.
 - o Body paint is not considered sufficient coverage and is not permitted.
 - o Attire of an overly revealing or suggestive nature is not permitted. Examples of such attire may include, but are not restricted to:
 - o Shirts or tops exposing excessive skin
 - o Tank, tube or halter tops
 - o Miniskirts or minidresses
 - o Shorts
 - o Spandex (or other Second-Skin) bodysuits

- Objectionable or offensive costumes

These guidelines are applicable to all booth staff, regardless of gender, and will be strictly enforced. We reserve the right to request that individual booth staff change their attire or leave the premises immediately if we feel that their appearance might be offensive to other exhibitors or attendees.

Enforcement: We will be publishing an email address and/or phone number to report onsite offenses. We will notify the booth manager of the offense in person as well as by email.

Penalties: Please familiarise yourself with the last section of these Rules and Regulations for Exhibitors and Sponsors, “Penalties for Violations”. These will be strictly enforced.

BRAINDATE

For many attendees, networking and peer-to-peer learning are an invaluable part of RSAC. And now with Braindate—one of our new offerings within the RSAC Engagement Zone—it’s easier than ever to find and have meaningful conversations with others who share your interests. The Braindate platform enables attendees to crowdsource learning experiences from thousands of other attendees. At the same time, it offers a more intimate, personalized way to connect with others about subject matters that you feel passionate about.

Braindates are in-person meet ups. These one-on-one or small-group (7 people max) conversations are focused on topics proposed by RSAC 2020 attendees via the Braindates platform. Full Conference attendees can access the Braindate app either on the event app or online, complete a profile for themselves and then search for topics/challenges of interest, or propose their own for someone else to meet up with them to discuss.

If attendees need help getting started, they can visit the Braindate Check In desk on West Level 2.

Many people come to Conference with an issue to solve. They work to educate themselves about this issue through visiting vendors on the floor and attending sessions on that topic. The Engagement Zone was created to be an additional resource for attendees to solve their issues and challenges by connecting with people who may be facing the same or a similar challenge or have overcome something similar in the past. The programs in the Engagement Zone allow attendees to tap into the wealth of knowledge that is the RSA conference attendee base.

CISO WHITE GLOVE

This is a new program for the Conference and has been designed to recognize the most senior level security professionals (CISOs and equivalent) at some of the world's largest organizations. The program is intended to recognize these attendees as some of the most valued at RSA Conference and to offer a slightly higher-level of customer service. The goal is to elevate their experience, so they register themselves and approve their staff to attend future RSAC events. Attendees of the ESAF and CISO Boot Camp programs are considered members of this program and will be identified by a ribbon on their badge that says CISO Boot Camp or ESAF.

Some benefits of this program include:

- Agenda curation: We want CISOs to see value in their attendance at Conference and take advantage of appropriate educational opportunities. Each White Glove attendee has been offered to have a custom schedule built for them based on their interests. Kacy Zurkus on the RSA Conference content team has worked with those that have opted to take advantage of this offering to build custom schedules and reserve seats in session rooms accordingly. Should there be any questions by attendees specific to their curated schedules, Kacy should be contacted directly at: 339-927-8192. Her contact details have been provided to all White Glove attendees.

- Fast Track Keynote Access: Attendees of both programs will have Fast Track access to Tuesday morning Keynote. ESAF attendees that do not have a Full Conference Badge will be given a Fast Track ticket to show access control. CISO Boot Camp attendee badges will be programmed to allow access into the room through the Fast Track entrance(s).
- Lounge: A small lounge will be dedicated to this group from Tuesday - Friday. Location of this lounge is Moscone West, Level 2 Lobby; just opposite the Keynote Viewing Screen. The lounge will be marked as "Private" and will be available from 8:00 am - 5:00 pm Tuesday - Thursday and from 8:00 am - 12:00 pm on Friday. It will be staffed with a temp staff member and a scanner to monitor usage. Light refreshments will be on offer.

You will not find reference to this program in any printed materials or on the Conference website. Attendees themselves have not even been formally made aware of the program. Simply put, if Conference staff is asked a question of someone wearing a designated ribbon please offer a slightly elevated level of customer service.

WRISTBAND PLAN

- Wristbands are available from Security at the entrance to the Expos and at Contractor Entrance points. Starting on Sunday, all exhibitors should be badged and only EAC's and vendors can pick up a wristband from either of the labor entrances or Registration
